Letter from the Editor

Even within the few short months that followed graduation, it became clear that the biggest challenge was not leaving Williams, but leaving the people with whom we spent our four years. Certainly, the physical home of our memories will be transformed when we return to visit in the years to come. The construction projects that were completed in our time are only a shadow of the changes to come as the Paresky Center (the “New Baxter”), the massive Stetson-Sawyer project, and the planned new athletic facilities are added to the campus map. The purple mountains, thankfully, will always welcome us home.

We will fondly remember the peace of our days at Williams as we enter the real world, whose troubles broke through the Purple Bubble in 2005 when New Orleans was ravaged by Hurricane Katrina and a devastating earthquake rocked South Asia. We face a world in which the war in Iraq drags on, and peace in the Middle East is still a dream. Politicians muddle around as an energy crisis looms and the threat of global warming becomes frighteningly clear. Yet we have the tools to change the world, and we are hopeful. After all, tomorrow is another day.

Adrian, we will miss you.

~ Carolyn
Mountain Day

It was as well to be educated in the shadow of a mountain as in more classic study. Some will remember, no doubt, not only that they went to college, but that they went to the mountain.

On Saturday, November 12, 2005, the Williams and Amherst football teams will meet for the 120th time. It promises to be a great day of competition on Weston Field. We are asking all Williams fans to cheer on the Ephs and respect this great rivalry by treating all Amherst fans and players with dignity and class. Let’s make Homecoming a success both on and off the field.

Sincerely,

for the record, the concert was awesome and well worth the 17 bucks.

So supposedly this concert is going to be pretty dope city. Cool facial hair treatise: Hope everyone goes and makes it look like there; are you going?

Clap Your Hands didn't come off well, musically, In fact, I ate the brother, because I thought for one however, the guitar had a big impact on the experience. The balance was all off (guitar too loud and the vocals too soft) I mean, obviously part of it is the part where has been the instrument isolated to great the audience. I like CYHSY so I was strugßen I won't admit that they didn't sound great. In general, the concert was no load in certain parts of the "sustained" that out reverb took. Oh...

Good things come to those who wait. Paresky comes to those who don't graduate.

Construction will be occurring all over campus for approximately the next million years. Do not be alarmed if all the dorms begin to look alike inside and sport strange and uncomfortable yet spill-resistant furniture, or tiling that reminds you of elementary school. We thank you for your cooperation.

The Lehman Community Service Council is an umbrella organization for the over forty student volunteer groups at Williams. It provides group leaders with training, financing, and technical assistance. Working with the Chaplains Office and Office of Community Service, we promote the spirit of service on campus through events, promotions and Service Fairs, inform students about community developments and opportunities and collaborate with academic programs to develop experiential education curricula.

Peer Health is a student-run organization at Williams College that provides the Williams community with information about health and sexuality. We serve as a bridge between the student body and Psychology Services and the Health Center. Issues that Peer Health deals with are: eating concerns, drugs and alcohol, sexual assault, women’s and men’s health, sex and sexuality, pregnancy options, sexually transmitted diseases, and stress.

The Rape and Sexual Assault Network provides information, support, and counseling to members of the college community who are affected by the issues of rape and sexual assault through a 24-hour hotline, support groups, and entry talks. In addition, RASAN seeks to increase campus awareness of these issues through events such as Take Back the Night and to encourage all members of our community to consider what they can do to prevent rape and sexual assault and to support the survivors of these crimes.

"Take Back the Night"
Founded in 1895, the Gargoyle Society is dedicated to the betterment of student and community life at Williams College. We endeavor to broaden and deepen activity and awareness in every facet of the Williams experience.

The Purple Bike Coalition maintains and lends out bicycles to the student body in addition to staffing the campus bike shop.

The Berkshire Food Project started by Williams students in the 1980s, serves food to low-income local residents. Volunteers serve lunch, eat and talk with the clients, and clean up afterwards.

A LETTER FROM

September 30-October 9, 2005

Welcome to the opening week for Theatre and Dance. It's an exciting time this fall in the College and in the community.

With the opening of six new facilities to match the growth of Theatre and Dance, we have the opportunity to present innovative new groups of works by prominent artists, including CenterSeries, an annual program that brings in new works and artists each year.

Much of the Center's success is due to the intellectual community that exists on campus. This year, we're particularly excited about the collaboration between the College and the Department of Dance, which has resulted in an expanded offering of courses and an increased level of interaction between the two communities.

Thanks to the hard work of the Department of Theatre and Dance and the support of the College, we're able to bring you a diverse and exciting program of events this fall. We hope you'll join us and enjoy the performances.

MUSIC

looms over Main Street, using its neon sign to announce its big-city aspirations to the quiet of Williamstown. In the fall of 2005, students were invited to a series of grand opening shows and celebrations, and it is hoped that the new building will come to serve a larger portion of the student body, in addition to its main summer Theater Festival audience.

Designed by William Reckman Associates, the ‘62 Center features three distinct performing venues. The Main Stage is a courtyard-style proscenium theater with 550 seats and two balconies. The historic Adams Memorial Theater, built in 1941, was renovated to include 200 seats and a flexible stage. The Center Stage is an atelier studio theater and has seating for 200. The Center Stage also features a domed rehearsal studio, adjustable seating and movable balconies. The ‘62 Center also features three rehearsal spaces, dressing rooms, and costume and scene shops.

You probably heard them first at a pre-frosh Jamboree. Or at the Purple Key Fair. Or during the Entry Sings. Or on Mountain Day.

If you aren’t in an a capella group, someone you know is, and even if music sans instruments isn’t your thing, you’ve probably been a supportive friend in the crowd in Brooks-Rogers, Schow atrium or Goodrich.

Cory Castelli in for a touchdown
Many coaches believe you can learn more from defeat than you can from victory and this certainly was the case for our 2005 football team. After losing our first two games at Colby and Trinity, we found ourselves searching for answers. Then in our home opener against Bates we continued to struggle for the first three quarters of the game. Finally in the fourth quarter, behind the leadership of our senior class, our football team rallied together and played to the level which we all knew we were capable of. It was that final fifteen minutes of the Bates game which would ultimately define our season. Our team went on to win our final six games, the Little Three Championship and sent our seniors out as winners with a convincing 34-23 victory over Amherst at homecoming.

Men's Cross Country
The men's cross country team won the Purple Valley Classic, the Plasky Invitational, the 18th straight Little Three, and the ECAC Div III meets. Senior Neal Holtschulte won the NCAA Div III race and became the first Eph male runner to receive All-America honors four years in a row. Junior Stephen Wills also received All-America honors.

Women's Cross Country
The women's cross country team won their second NCAA Championship, the Purple Valley Classic, the Plasky Invitational, the Little Three, the NESCAC Championship, and the New England NCAA Qualifier. Senior Caroline Crotti won her third NESCACs and received All-America honors for the third time. All-America honors also went to seniors Michelle Roseke and sophomores Liz Gleason and Mollory Hedin.

What is your biggest fear?
- the real world
- the First Fridays line
- fear itself
what SHOULD our mascot be?  — nothing is better than the owl — biggest Williams myth:
- that everyone gets invited to Morty's for dinner
- that we're all going to marry each other one question you want answered about Williams:
- do professors even care we take 3 other classes?
- why can't we park in the parking garage?
- who is Wilbur anyway?

"There's Work to Do"

Here's Malt the Davenport Bobrovski poem—and it's for you

We are not here to play, to dream, to drift
We have work to do and loads to lift.
Shun not the struggle face it. 'Tis God's gift.
Say not the days are dull—what to blame?
And fold the hands and acquiesce—O shame!
Stand up, speak out, and boldly in God's name.
It matters not how deep entrenched the wrong.
How hard the battle goes, the day how long.
Faint not, fight on! Tomorrow comes the song.

Distinguished Class of 2006: "Tomorrow comes the song."
When Chuck Davis comes to town, people hang on to their hats, because they’re about to be shaken up.

Y’all get ready. Ohhhhh-kay. Good morning… Good morning! Mmm-hmmmm. Wassup y’all!

When you look, make sure that you see.

funga alofeya ashay ashay ashay (we welcome you with open arms as we welcome you with our hearts) ganza ganza ah hah hah hah (we have learned!)
ganza ganza… wooh!
Let’s be reminded of the fact that we are not here at this time and space merely by happenstance, many of you have gone through your studies to find out exactly how we all fit into the universal scheme of life, liberty and the pursuit of happy times.

The only time you look down on a person - always remember this - is when you help them up.

Let me live my life so the preacher won't have to lie at my funeral. Now lean over an give two people a hug.

Graduates, welcome to life beyond the county line!
"Too many of us think we need to rush ahead, to compete for the top positions, to leave some mark on the world. This is a mistake that will only make us sorer and tired. For better to look within ourselves and do what we feel is right, even if at the outset that appears to put us at the back of the pack. We may end up affecting one person’s life, or we may end up shaking the world. We may become powerful leaders, or we may find ourselves leading a quiet existence. It is hard to know exactly where our hearts will take us, but it is easy to see that following the path they lead us on is a sure way to happy, fulfilling lives."
In a few years, take some time to reflect about why you are what you are:
how your life has been a triumph of will or perhaps a concession to circumstance, how your dreams have been shaped by your surroundings, and the particular influence of this college. Now I know the last two days have largely consisted of people telling you to remember this, meditate on that, and be grateful for everything, but nobody's been demanding quite enough of you. If you've learned anything here, it's that clear thinking happens best in the course of clear writing and clear speaking. One thing Williams hasn't taught you is that the most important subject you will ever study is yourself. So put your life under a microscope, and then write down what you see. Keep a diary, even if you only update it once or twice a year. Don't be shy about telling your friends, your family, and your fellow pilgrims in this life what, in your judgment, Williams meant to you. I'm asking this because your listeners are sure to be impressed.
You see behind the confident, relaxed faces of the graduates here today, I imagine there are at least a few who, like me, aren't sure they're totally ready for the whole life-after-college thing. The fact is we aren't -- and maybe we even can't -- be prepared for everything. This really bothers us Williams students who are basically know-it-alls at heart. But what I discovered this year is that not knowing how to cook, or balance a checkbook, or iron pleats, isn't the end of the world. You'll learn eventually. And even if you don't, you'll be amazed at how well you can do with just a little creativity and a sense of humor.

Mary, you make us all so proud. We love you

Congratulations, Carolyn

You have worked so hard and gotten so far so quickly.

From the moment you arrived you were a seabird, a native of the water, flying over the beach on the Cape.

How could we be so blessed to have watched you grow?

Be good, be smart, and smile.

We love you C-bird!

You're such a special daughter, it's no wonder you are loved so much. It takes a very talented and loving person to handle all the things you do. In your busy life, you're many things to lots of people, but to our family you'll always be very special and very loved. Sincere Congratulations on this wonderful occasion. And may the future hold all the happiness and success you so well deserve.

Matthew Slovitt of Winnetka, Ill., enjoys a classic college experience: a top liberal-arts school, a competitive golf program, junior-varsity squash, sketch comedy and a 14-day cruise studying philosophy and biology in the Galapagos Islands. "I'm juggling a lot, but all of my friends have commitments, too," says the senior co-captain. "They're not hanging out playing beach volleyball."

8:45 a.m. Wake up, eat breakfast in the dining hall.

9:55 a.m. Equality class. "I'm not a huge political-science-theory guy, but the class is 100 percent discussion motivated by the 12 students."

11:10 a.m. Library. As a biology and economics double major, studying four hours a day, five days a week is standard.

12:15 p.m. A quick sandwich at a table in the newly renovated science building.

12:55 p.m. Send e-mails from a library computer station to arrange pairings for afternoon practice.

1 p.m. Three-hour microbiology lab. Students make presentations on the regulation of exopolysaccharide biosynthesis in Agrobacterium tumefaciens. "It's a very, very difficult class, but I learn a ton."

4:15 p.m. On the tee at Taconic Golf Club with teammates Uncle Z (Zach McArthur), Lapdog (Brendan Conley) and Cup (Nick Ryder). Play a quick 10 holes.

6:50 p.m. Dinner: salad, chicken piccata, pasta, Gatorade and frozen yogurt.

8 p.m. Work on an economics assignment with a tennis player.

11 p.m. Frosh Revue four-year party. "I'm loud, I like attention, and I'm tone-deaf. My bad singing kind of made the song we wrote; I was a regular Joe up there."

2 a.m. Lights out.

Jessica, all your life you'll be part magic and part mystery, because you have ideas, thoughts, and wishes all your own... And where it counts, inside the heart, we've grown together, through challenges and changes as the passing years have flown. Your loveliness begins inside and brings such pride and happiness, it isn't easy to express in simple words and phrases how beautiful you'll always be in ways the heart alone can see, how much you mean, how dear you are how well deserved this praise is.

Congratulations on this one of many great achievements you have made!

The 2006 Gulielmian was produced in our transitional office in Hardy House, and it is the second Williams College yearbook to be published entirely in full color. The Gul Staff have shown tremendous dedication in producing this year’s book, and while we hope this book lives up to your expectations, we must quote the 1906 Gul in saying:

“Ah, maybe the reader will blame us, and maybe he’ll voice some scant praise;
But no Gul can please everybody, and no Gul can touch every phase.
For you see we are merely presenting, (as we think we stated above),
A view of the year as we’ve seen it, for the good of the college we love.”

The development of our scrapbook design theme was aided by a mid-semester transition to Adobe InDesign CS2, a vast improvement over PageMaker 6.5. The cover design was created by Carolyn Reuman ’06, Mike Lenfest, and Brian Allen. The $40,000 for publication was raised entirely through the sale of books and senior ads.

Many thanks are due to Kris Dufour of Sports Information for providing the majority of our varsity athletics photos. Ben Rudick ’08 supplied our fabulous theater and dance photos as well as coverage for special events. Cover photos are courtesy of Jon Douse ’06 and Ben Rudick ’08. Senior portraits were taken by DaNors Photography and developed at the DaNors studios. We would also like to thank the many students who contributed pictures—we strive to make the Gul as representative of the student body as possible.

Further thanks are due to EunSu Chang ’06; Eric Cheung ’06; Caren Korn of DaNors Photography; and especially to Jostens representative Mike Lenfest, who provided training for new staff, managed the sale of senior ads, and was essential to the completion of this year’s book.

The 2006 Gul was published by Jostens Inc. at their plant in State College, PA. The total press consisted of 460 copies with 200 pages per book.
